

IMAGINE INSPIRE ACT

IMPACT REPORT
2023/24

Dear Friend,

At PRC, we envision a vibrant and diverse San Francisco that serves as a gleaming example of what is possible for the rest of the nation. We aspire for the day when everyone has stable housing, mental health and substance use disorders carry no stigma, there are zero new HIV infections, and the health and healing of our community is a collective charge. We see this future. It is bright, and we are taking action to realize it.

Every day, we witness the struggles of our clients, but we don't get discouraged. Instead, we focus on adding value to our life-transforming services. We advocate for systemic changes to remove barriers to improving health and wellness. We pursue results and impact.

For our clients, the journey from crisis to stability is often complex and lengthy. It requires the fundamental belief that change is possible through the support of peers and community and persistent incremental steps toward progress. Disappointment and setbacks are a natural part of the process, but our clients persevere nonetheless, and in doing so, inspire us all.

The greatest affirmation of our work is when our clients go on to provide the same services they previously benefitted from. In the following pages, you will read the story of AJ, a former client turned devoted employee, and see how his participation in several of our programs transformed the trajectory of his life. We hope AJ's story inspires you, ignites your imagination, and sparks action to make positive change.

Thank you for supporting PRC and joining our mission.

In community,

Chuan Teng

PRC's integrated services provide a client-centered continuum of care that moves individuals from crisis to stability, addressing needs at every stage to promote independence and better health and economic outcomes.

“PRC was there for me through the many and various supports that I needed. Even when I didn’t know what I needed. Having people that care and understand is what helped get me to where I am today.”

AJ has been an employee with PRC for six years, currently as the Training Coordinator, where he ensures all employees remain up to date in all annual trainings and are supported and ready to help our clients. AJ’s life journey was marked by hardship and uncertainty until he found solace and stability at PRC, through a supportive environment that valued his resilience and dedication to recovery.

Through AJ’s story, we aim to highlight the challenges our clients face and the time it takes to make a lasting impact, while also underscoring what is possible. We also hope to foster compassion and a deeper understanding of the inherent redeemability of our clients.

When AJ first arrived in San Francisco, he did what many of us do and set off to see the Golden Gate Bridge. When he returned to his car, it and all his belongings inside were gone. Poor choices fueled by AJ’s substance use prompted his father to report the car as stolen. Just like that, AJ was on the streets with only the items he had on him. This would be one of three times when AJ frequented the streets of San Francisco with nothing but the clothes on his back.

AJ learned about Acceptance Place, PRC’s 90-day residential treatment program for substance use. He decided to take the first step. For 60 days, AJ stuck with the regimented schedule and counseling sessions until his cravings grew too strong and compelled him to leave early.

Over time, the hardships of living outside wore on AJ. His tent and contents were taken as part of a street sweep, which took an enormous emotional toll. AJ was ready to give treatment another try.

Back at Acceptance Place, AJ found the regimented structure to be a welcome and supportive tool on his journey to sobriety and self-improvement. He fully embraced the process and completed the 90-day treatment program, which was an important step in AJ’s recovery.

Now eligible to receive a grant from PRC’s Emergency Financial Assistance Program, AJ purchased a phone and began reconnecting with his family. This was a key step towards his stability.

Needing to secure a stable income, AJ worked with PRC’s Legal Advocacy program to apply for Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI). In doing so, he learned that a bench warrant in his hometown would prevent him from being awarded benefits. So AJ traveled home, turned himself in, and served nine months before returning to San Francisco. Upon returning, it would take four years for AJ’s retroactive SSDI benefits to be approved.

AJ was once again living in unstable housing with others who were using substances which made it difficult for him to maintain his sobriety. He reached a breaking point and knew he couldn’t continue this path. AJ once again sought the support of PRC’s residential programs.

PRC’s Ferguson Place provided a change of scenery. The care, understanding, and comradery AJ experienced inspired AJ to decide to become a substance use counselor.

AJ was referred back to Legal Advocacy and their Return to Work program. They helped him enroll at San Francisco City College, where he graduated with his Addiction & Recovery Counseling certificate and became a Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor.

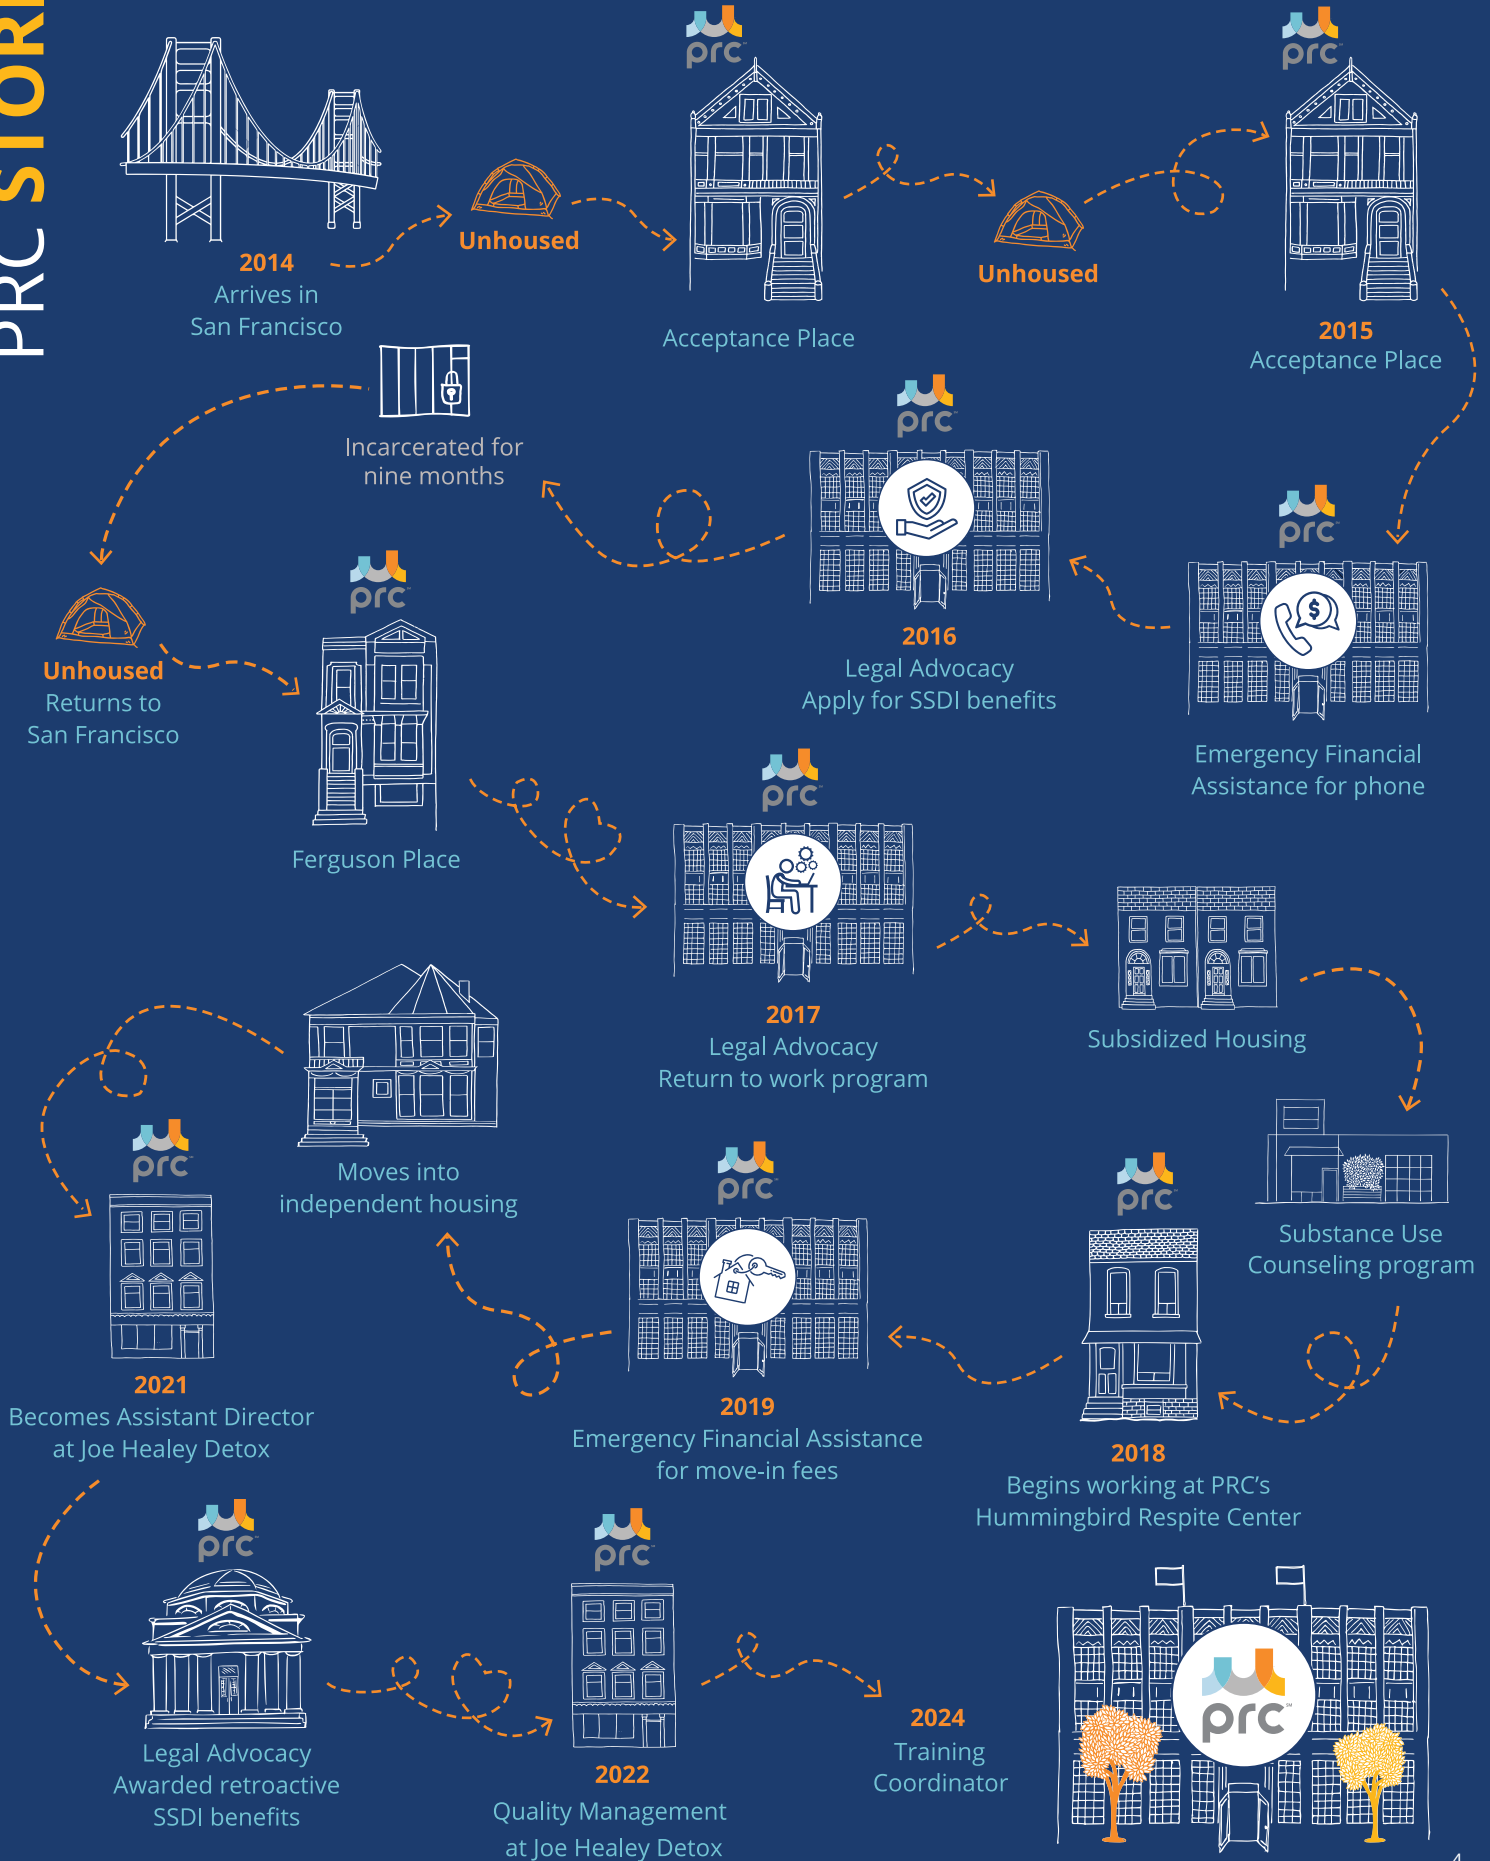

AJ then started work as a residential counselor at PRC’s Hummingbird Potrero Respite Center. He applied his education, lived experience, and a harm reduction approach to help others on their path to self-improvement. AJ then enrolled in an internship program to build his counseling knowledge. He met his husband there, who was also working to become a counselor. Together, they moved into stable subsidized housing.

A year later, AJ became a residential substance use counselor at Acceptance Place, the same location where his path began, bringing his journey full circle. Since then, AJ has held multiple roles including the Assistant Director at Joe Healey Detox and Quality Management Specialist overseeing proper completion of documentation and client services.

As AJ and his husband began to outgrow subsidized housing, AJ secured another grant from PRC’s Emergency Financial Assistance program to help with move-in costs to ease the transition to more independent housing. They found their own place and are happily still there today.

AJ shares his story to inspire others to believe in themselves, to ask for help, and to know that they aren’t alone. He’s helping inspire and prepare the next generation of compassionate care workers, and he does it with a smile.

AJ'S JOURNEY

ACCESSING INCOME AND HEALTHCARE

LEGAL ADVOCACY attorneys and legal assistants are subject matter experts on Federal Disability Benefits programs including SSI and SSDI. As the only program of its kind, clients have an advocate through the entire application process. Benefits can take years before they are awarded. These often life-changing sums provide much-needed stability and security.

757 individuals received legal assistance

94% approval rate for all  fully adjudicated cases

Individuals are 3x more likely to receive the disability income they're entitled to when they have an advocate on their side.

145 notices of awards

$3,915,895 in retroactive benefits

$136,382 in ongoing monthly payments

IN AJ'S WORDS

"Without Legal Advocacy, I never would have been able to get on Medicare or get approved for Social Security. Their thoroughness in preparing me for my final hearing was top notch. It took the whole process for me to really understand my disabilities and how they combined together to impact my life and career. I am forever grateful for PRC."

EQUAL ACCESS TO HEALTHCARE

PROGRAM (EAHP) helps low-income clients with HIV understand their healthcare options and get connected to services. This year, EAHP focused on assisting clients through the end of the public health emergency, ensuring they remained on MediCal or found alternative coverage. The Covered California marketplace has improved healthcare access, but many clients require help navigating the number of available insurance plans.

81% of closed EAHP clients maintained, increased, or preserved health access

363 clients assisted with access to health care

SF HIV FRONTLINE ORGANIZING GROUP

(SF HIV FOG) is a collaboration between San Francisco organizations serving people living with HIV and supports HIV frontline workers through:

- Training and networking events
- Resource and information sharing
- Professional development opportunities

EAHP and SF HIV FOG PROVIDED

27 outreach trainings

18 direct community provider consultations

CRISIS CARE

HUMMINGBIRD RESPITE CENTERS

provide a first step into receiving services. To the unhoused, making a big change can be daunting, even if it's in the right direction. Our Hummingbird sites remove all barriers. Individuals can drop in as they are, with their pets, partner, and belongings. With their basic needs met, we can begin to build trust and help them get comfortable with the idea of being linked to services at their own pace.

Hummingbird Potrero

288 overnight guests

Daily Access hosted 3,217

Hummingbird Valencia

30 beds

357 overnight guests

Daily Access hosted 4,338

SERVICES INCLUDE

- Laundry
- Meals
- Showers
- Storage
- Linkage to other services
- Help with getting an ID

IN AJ'S WORDS

"Working at Hummingbird is an experience I'll never forget. It taught me that success isn't just about quitting substances. For some, success is living through another night, and Hummingbird is there to help them do that with dignity and respect. I wish it was around when I was on the streets."

STABILIZING HOUSING AND MEDICAL CARE

EMERGENCY FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

(EFA) grants help low-income clients living with HIV secure and maintain housing with the goal of sustaining medical regimens. Grants take care of essential bills to prevent evictions as well as underwrite move-in costs, medical expenses, and other necessities. These funds provide an enormous sense of relief by ensuring that individuals overcome economic and housing barriers to care.

1,296 clients living with HIV accessed $1,277,635 in emergency funds

IN AJ'S WORDS

"With the phone I was able to get through an EFA grant, I called my mom and said, 'I can't tell you I'm going to change anymore. All I can do is show you. Follow me online. See the changes I'm making.' That phone provided a bridge to my family that I previously lacked."

GETTING TREATMENT

RESIDENTIAL BEHAVIORAL HEALTH TREATMENT services address mental illness, substance use disorder, and co-occurring conditions in four service-rich, home-like environments.

HOUSING NAVIGATION, PRC's newest program, works closely with the City's homelessness response system, Coordinated Entry, to help clients determine their eligibility for and apply to different housing programs.

212 people accessed substance use and mental health treatment programs

68% of residents met one or more of their goals

4 programs

51 beds

RESIDENTS BENEFIT FROM

- Counseling
- Support system development
- Self-regulation techniques
- Independent life skill building
- Linkage to social workers, medical providers, and housing navigation services

IN AJ'S WORDS

"Residential treatment got me through some really tough craving situations. It provided structure, a family, and camaraderie. I was able to gain a better understanding of my addiction and HIV. It led me to go back to school and get back to the real world. The compassion I received there became a model for my own counseling career."

SUPPORTIVE HOUSING

COOPERATIVE (CO-OP) prepares individuals to graduate from our treatment services and become independent in 21 PRC-managed units throughout the city.

168 beds

21 co-ops

RESIDENTS HAVE ACCESS TO

- Rental subsidies
- Case managers for individual support with vocational, educational, and social services
- Multi-bedroom apartments shared with others with similar lived experiences

LELAND HOUSE is San Francisco's largest transitional residential care facility for people living with HIV.

TAMARA RASBERRY-HARRIS BLC MEMBER

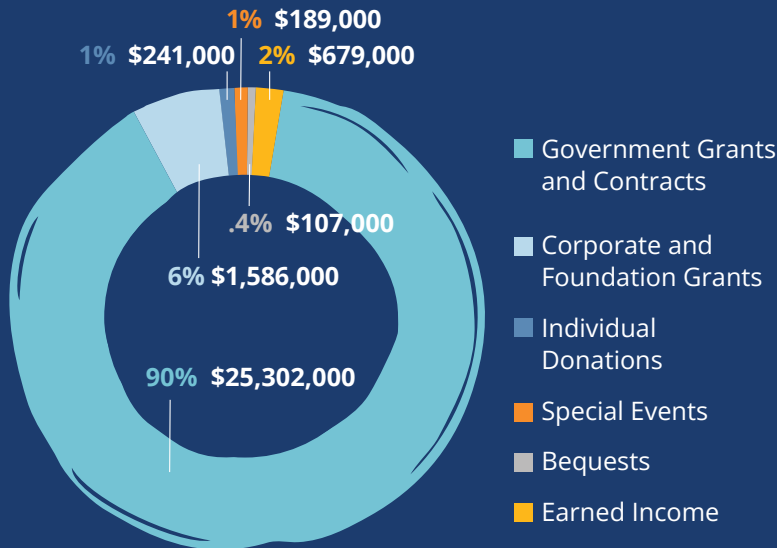

“Our vision is to move California out of a deficit mind-set for Black communities. Our legislative priorities encompass this belief: from outlawing discrimination of natural hairstyles and boosting violence prevention efforts at the community level, to expanding Medi-Cal benefits and eradicating food deserts, we strive to create a prosperous California for all who have been historically left behind.”

OUR FINANCIALS

Pre-audit financials for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2024

INCOME

$28,105,000

EXPENSES

$27,795,000

These fiscal year 2024 financials are management estimates and do not reflect the audit report for PRC, which comprises consolidated financial statements that include a financial accounting of Baker Places, Inc. (BP), a subsidiary of PRC. As PRC is a sole corporate member of BP due to having a controlling financial interest in BP, FASB ASC 958-810-25-2 requires that PRC consolidate financials with BP in order to remain in accordance with U.S GAAP. However, PRC and BP remain separate 501(c)(3) organizations with separate 990 filings.

OUR MISSION is to help people affected by HIV/AIDS, substance use, or mental health issues better realize opportunities by providing integrated legal, social, and health services that address the broad range of social risk factors that impact wellness and limit potential.
